Preface

There are several estimates regarding the magnitude of disability in India. The Census 2001 indicates that 2.2 percent of the total population is affected by disability. World Health Organisation (WHO) puts the figure at five to six per cent of the total population while other reports put the figure at as high as ten per cent.¹ If we add to this people with temporary disabilities, this figure would be much higher.

Both people with temporary and permanent disabilities need to access services like hospitals, physiotherapy centres and aids and appliances. In addition, people with disabilities also want to know where they can access education, vocational training and assistance for employment. Information on where these services are located and how to access them is often not readily available with community based organisations who are in contact with persons with disabilities. There is insufficient co-ordination and linkage between organisations working at the grassroot and rehabilitation providers.

This directory has been prepared so that it can serve as a tool to bridge this gap in information and linkages. It may be used by organisations and individuals to not only access services but also as a basis to demand services of a minimum standard and quality. We hope that through improved access to information, it will pave the way for promoting inclusion of persons with disabilities.

This is a first attempt to collate information on services across district Sabarkantha, Gujarat, provided by rehabilitation institutions, development organisations, hospitals and also some key government aided centres/organisations. An overview of government schemes and legislation is also provided with the aim that persons with disabilities and their caretakers can learn about their rights.

There has been a special effort to collate information on a wide range of services that address not only the educational and economic needs of persons with disabilities but also their social and psychological/emotional needs. A note on 'How to use the Directory' and an 'Index' of services has been given to help the readers to look for the information they are seeking.

The directory is being published simultaneously in both English and Gujarati to reach out to a maximum number of users. By no means is this information exhaustive or complete in all respects. The contents of the directory can be revised based on feedback received. We request the users to share with us their comments and information that may have been omitted but is critical. A feedback form at the end of the directory may be used for this purpose.

Guidelines for users

Why you must read this section?

We request the readers to read this section to enable them to get the maximum benefit of this directory. Reading the details given below will help you to understand:

- a. who would benefit from this directory
- b. what you can look for in the following pages
- c. how the information has been classified and presented and why we have chosen to present it the way we have
- d. How to use the Index to locate services that you may want to access.

A. Who will benefit from this directory?

- Persons with disabilities and their caretakers
- Persons with temporary disabilities
- Functionaries of rehabilitation institutions, development organisations and government functionaries
- Professionals
- Academia and
- Anyone working with or for persons with disabilities

B. What does the directory contain?

Usually, a directory for persons with disabilities would contain information on services provided by rehabilitation institutions working for and with them. However, in this directory, we have also tried to include development organisations who may not be providing direct services for persons with disabilities, but are playing the role of co-ordination, referral and linkages to these services. Since such organisations may be working at the grassroot, it may be easier for persons with disabilities to contact them and obtain information from them about specific services that they may require. In addition, some of these development organisations are involved in publishing materials or doing advocacy on disability issues.

Information has also been included on services provided by some hospitals in the district. We hope that these will be useful not only for those persons that are disabled from birth but also for those who have become disabled later in life or are temporarily disabled.

Kinds of Institutions covered:

An attempt has been made to include information on services provided by the following kinds of institutions:

1. Rehabilitation institutions
2. Hospitals
3. Development organisations

The above heads appear on the right top corner of all odd numbered pages. This would help you to locate a particular category of institutions. Under each category, information has been given for several institutions who are functioning in the district. In a given category, the institutions are alphabetically arranged.

Institution specific information:

For each institution, details have been provided on:

- Contact details
- Types of disabilities for whom the institution provides services
- Geographical coverage
- Nature of services provided: these are in the form of day care centers or residential facility like hostels or indoor and outdoor facilities for patients
- Criteria for availing services: Under this you will find information on whether the services are for boys/men, girls/women or for both. In some cases, some of the services (eg. hostel facility) provided by an institution may be only for a particular group while others may be offered to all. This section also indicates the age groups for which the organisation provides services, and any other specific criterion used by the institution for providing a service. As an example, some institutions choose to admit only such persons who are toilet trained.

- Types of services: these have been further classified under the following heads:
 - Preparatory services
 - Preventive services
 - Therapeutic services
 - Educational services
 - Vocational training and employment related services
 - Social Support services
 - Capacity building/training
 - Resources of the organisation
 - Aids and Appliances
 - Allied rehabilitation services
 - Emergency services

This classification is reflective of the rehabilitation or other needs that the specific services seek to address. An institution may provide the service directly or it may help individuals by giving them the information on where these services are available or co-ordinating on their behalf with the rehabilitation provider and providing relevant linkages to them with the latter. For each institution, you will find only those categories of services mentioned that are covered by it.

C. How is the information presented?

Bi-lingual presentation:

The contents of the directory have been presented simultaneously in both English and Gujarati (back to back) so that the information may reach the maximum number of users.

Sequencing of information:

The information in the directory is presented broadly in 5 sections:

- a. List of the institutions in the numerical order in which they appear
- b. Institution specific information: for each institution, details have been provided on its focus areas and services that it provides for persons with disabilities. All the organisations are numbered serially.

- c. Index of services: After the listing of the institutions and before the appendices, an index has been given. This contains the listing of specific items/ services like artificial limbs, wheelchairs, physiotherapy in an alphabetical order. The serial numbers of the organisations who are providing these services are given against each service or entry. For example, if you want to get an assessment of disability done for your child, you can check under 'A' for 'assessment of disability' and then check for details in the organisations whose numbers are mentioned against it. Or if you want to know which institutions are providing direct services or linkages with services for visually impaired persons, then you can check under 'V' for 'Visual impairment' and check in the organisations indicated for further details.
- d. Appendices: contain information on government schemes, Acts and legislation for persons with disabilities, helpline service and the office of the Commissioner for persons with disabilities. Detailed information on schemes on disability is available through many other sources. Hence, this has been presented in a summarised form for our Gujarati readers to provide them an overview. For readers who are more conversant with English, this information is also available through websites. Hence, we have only listed the information herein and mentioned the website that you can access.
- e. Feedback form: At the end of the directory, there is a feedback form that we request you to fill and mail to us. Your suggestions and comments would enable us to improve the subsequent prints of this publication.

Acts and Legislation for Persons with Disabilities

1. The Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995

The Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 is guided by the philosophy of empowering persons with disabilities. The Act seeks to promote equality and participation of persons with disability on the one hand, and eliminate discriminations of all kinds, on the other. It encompasses provisions for the prevention of disability, promoting education, employment, affirmative action, non-discrimination, research and manpower development, recognition of institutions for persons with disabilities and monitoring the implementation machinery. The Act provides for appointment of a Commissioner in every State to look into complaints relating to deprivation and denial of rights of persons with disabilities.

2. The Rehabilitation Council of India Act, 1992

The Rehabilitation Council of India Act, 1992 was created to provide for the constitution of the Rehabilitation Council of India for regulating training of the rehabilitation professionals and maintaining of a Central Rehabilitation Register and for matters related to these issues.

The professionals who come under the purview of the Act are:

- Audiologists and Speech therapists
- Clinical Psychologists
- Hearing aid and ear mould technicians
- Rehabilitation engineers and technicians
- Special educators for teaching and training the handicapped
- Vocational counsellors, Employment officers, and Placement officers
- Multi-purpose rehabilitation therapists and technicians
- Speech pathologists

- Rehabilitation psychologists
- Rehabilitation social workers
- Rehabilitation practitioners in mental retardation
- Orientation and mobility specialists
- Community based rehabilitation professionals
- Rehabilitation counsellors/administrators
- Prosthetists and Orthotists
- Rehabilitation workshop managers

3. The Mental Health Act, 1987

The Mental Health Act, 1987 aimed to consolidate and amend the law relating to the treatment and care of mentally ill persons, to make better provision with respect to their property and affairs and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

The Act has been divided in six chapters dealing with different matters. Central and State authorities have been appointed. The chapters deal elaborately with the establishment of psychiatric hospitals and nursing homes, admission to such institutions of mentally ill patients, procedures of inspection, discharge, leave of absence and removal of mentally ill persons. The enactment also deals with custody of mentally ill persons, their property and its management. It has been sought that persons liable to maintain such ill persons will bear costs of maintenance, besides the costs to be borne by State in special cases.

There are some provisions as well which make certain contraventions penal. The penalty and procedure have been provided in the Act to deal with such offences. The Act gives protection also for action taken in good faith.

Pensions payable to mentally ill persons and also to provide legal aid has been provided. The Act empowers the Central and State government to make rules.

4. The National Trust for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999

The Government of India has become increasingly concerned about the need for affirmative action in favour of persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities. In acknowledgement of a wide range of competencies among these individuals, the Central government has set up a National Trust. The Trust will be promotive, proactive and protectionist in nature. It will seek primarily to uphold the rights, promote the development and safeguard the interests of persons with autism, cerebral palsy, mental retardation and multiple disabilities and their families.

Towards this goal, the National Trust will support programmes which promote independence, facilitating guardianship where necessary and address the concerns of those special persons who do not have their family support. The Trust will seek to strengthen families and protect the interest of such persons after the death of their parents. It will extend support to registered organisations to provide need-based services during the period of crisis in the family of persons with disability.

Appendix IV

*If your rights are being denied,
you can do something about it!*

If you are a person with disability and you have faced discrimination on account of your disability, you can now seek assistance for redressal of your complaint under the 'Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995'

Contact:
Commissioner for Persons with Disabilities
Gujarat State
First Floor, Old Vidhan Sabha Building
Near Town Hall, Sector 17,
Gandhinagar – 382017
Ph: 23256746, 23256747

Under the Act, the Commissioner may on his own or on application of an aggrieved person look into complaints with respect to:

- deprivation of rights of persons with disabilities
- non-implementation of laws, rules, bye-laws, regulations, executive orders, guidelines or instructions made or issued by the appropriate governments and the local authorities for the welfare and protection of rights of persons with disabilities and take up the matter with appropriate authorities.

The Commissioner can:

- take steps to safeguard the rights and facilities made available to persons with disabilities
- monitor the utilisation of funds disbursed by the State government
